France To Demand First 26 Billion Gold Francs Collected As Reparations In Return For Evacuation Of The Ruhr Valley

Aged Mother From Mountains Wins Freedom For Her Son

ASHVILLE, TENN., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—An aged mother from the Tennessee mountains today won a battle that she has fought single-handed against the powers of the state for the last 10 years, when her plea that her son, a prisoner in the state penitentiary here be pardoned, was granted.

Mrs. Susan Hatfield, 83, the mother, appeared before the parole board and addressed Governor Austin Peay as "son" and the members of the parole board as "children."

Her son, Lon Hatfield, was convicted in 1908 for the murder of a minister. The sole tangible evidence was a twenty dollar gold piece, said to have belonged to the minister, which was found in Hatfield's pocket after the murder. Hatfield declared that the coin belonged to him but the jury rejected this claim and convicted him on circumstantial evidence.

Immediately after sentence was passed on her son, the mother began her battle for his freedom. She sold her little farm and during the last 10 years she has made at least fifty trips to the penitentiary to present her plea to the authorities and to see her son.

At last, she obtained from both the trial judge and the prosecuting attorney requests that Lon Hatfield be pardoned. These requests were joined by the widow of the slain minister.

Mrs. Hatfield was told by Governor Peay that he would make her a Christmas present of her son.

Child Kidnapped In Cleveland; Nurse Is Sought By Officials

CLEVELAND, O., July 29.—(By the United Press)—A nation wide hunt was instituted by police here today for five-year-old Dorothy May Blanchard, and Mrs. Phoebe Woods, 50, a nurse, charged with kidnapping little Dorothy.

A strong maternal instinct, dammed up through an unrequited passion for a child, led the nurse to kidnap the child, police said they believed.

Mrs. Woods had been caring for Dorothy while the mother, Mrs. Margaret Blanchard, who had separated from her husband five months ago, worked to earn enough money to go to her husband's parents in Newark, N. J.

Saturday Mrs. Blanchard told Mrs. Woods she would leave for Newark Tuesday and take Dorothy with her. Mrs. Woods, asked permission to take Dorothy down town and buy her a present. Neither the child nor the nurse have been seen since. A warrant charging Mrs. Woods with kidnapping was sworn out today. Police notified Ann Arbor, Michigan, authorities to watch the homes of Mrs. Woods' relatives there.

BREAD PRICES TO ADVANCE

COLUMBUS, O., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Bread prices must advance as soon as the old stocks of flour are exhausted, according to Fred D. Pfening, secretary of the Ohio

Bakers' Association.

"With the advance in the price of wheat it is a foregone conclusion that bread, too, must advance in price," he said.

Mr. Pfening said that because of unsettled conditions of the wheat market and the uncertainty regarding farm legislation, many bakers in Ohio, but here, buying small quantities of flour just as it is needed and as a result they have suffered heavy losses in present advance in the price of flour.

In a few cities in the state, Mr. Pfening said, bakers have been selling bread below the cost of production based on old flour prices, this being due to local price wars.

Brazilian Rebs Routed; Flee Toward Wild Country

BY U. G. KEENER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
RIO DE JANEIRO, July 29.—Federal troops are rapidly restoring order in Sao Paulo today and normal conditions are being restored.

Governor Carlos de Campos has returned and resumed his position as chief of the state government. Martial law continues, however. The main column of the rebel troops, which evacuated Sao Paulo yesterday, appears to have escaped into the interior although this is not confirmed by today's official communique which merely says:

"The revolutionary leaders have escaped but the government has ordered their capture."

It is assumed here that the rebels are disbanding and fleeing toward the wild country of the interior of Mato Grosso.

There can be no doubt but that the rebellion is practically over and that the victory of the government of President Bernardes is complete.

The rebels after more than three weeks of bitter fighting, found their position hopeless when support they had expected from other parts of the country failed to materialize.

The rebellion of Sao Paulo, (second city of Brazil with 700,000 inhabitants when the rebellion started) has started returning to its homes and rebuilding of ruined property will begin at once.

Damage to commerce from the rebellion will not be as extensive as might be expected, according to private messages. Huge stocks of coffee held in the interior of Sao Paulo state have not been disturbed and normal shipments to the United States which averaged upwards of $20,000 a month, can be resumed at once.

It is believed here the federal government will offer amnesty to the rank and file of the rebel troops but that all leaders will be executed summarily as rapidly as they are rounded up.

In Tar and Feather Plot

Mrs. Dorothy Shank, left, of Frederick, Md., believing Dorothy Grun- dman, 21, had stolen her husband's love, took matters into her own hands. Al- lided by a mob of 50 prominent citizens of Frederick, she dragged her rival into the country, near Myersburg, Md., and, under the glare of automobile headlights, beat her severely, then administered a coat of tar and feather. Now Mrs. Shank is facing a penitentiary term of 18 months to 10 years.

October 15 Date For Leaving The Ruhr

BY LLOYD ALLEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, July 29.—Under pressure from an American-British banking group, France has yielded her rights to separate action and Premier Herriot proposes to offer evacuation of the Ruhr on October 15, according to information from trustworthy sources today.

"This is regarded as the turning point in the inter-allied reparations conference which now only awaits a formal offer from France to this effect before going ahead with the machinery of the 'experts' plan."

The anticipated French proposal is being jealously guarded with the utmost secrecy in the meantime. The French delegation still is working on it and it will not be ready until late tonight when it will be circulated among the delegates.

In return, France wants absolute priority for the first 26 billion gold francs collected as reparations under the Dawes-McCormack plan.

If tonight's offer is made as reported now, it will cause a sensation in the conference.

The figure is certain to arouse a storm of protest from the Belgians, Italians and all smaller nations who have a claim to reparations.

The presence of the French in the Ruhr had been the main stumbling block to acquiescence by the banking groups in the proposed terms of an international loan. The French also will safeguard themselves by a clause in the formula providing for appeal to arbitration against majority decisions on sanctions.

Slayers Hear Confessions Read To Court

CHICAGO, July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, who pleaded guilty to the kidnapping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks, today heard read in open court first their denials and then their confessions of the crime.

Benjamin Bachrach, one of the attorneys for the boys, helped get into the record this final stage of the state's presentation of evidence by relieving Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, of the task of reading the prosecution's transcript of the boys' admission. Mr. Crowe's voice was worn, but after thirty minutes of reading, Mr. Bachrach said he "was getting a little hoarse." The state's attorney, however, declined to take up the vocal burden at that time.

Boys Grinned At Profane Statements

The boys listened with little change of expression until Mr. Bachrach reached a passage in which Leopold quoted a profane exclamation made to his brother when he learned that his spectacles had been found near the culvert in which he and Loeb had hidden the body of the Franks boy. When this came out in Mr. Bachrach's clear voice, both defendants grinned.

They smiled again when the account reached a colloquy between Leopold and Mr. Crowe in which the latter quizzed the student on the distinction between grammar and rhetoric.

Other points that amused the defendants included Leopold's hope that he was an expert automobile driver and his doubt as to whether gin was his favorite beverage.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, sat with the boys and talked with them from time to time.

Prospects of lack of dramatics in today's proceedings did not discourage spectators.

At one point in the reading Leopold's ideas on religion were worked into the record.

Does Not Believe In God

"There is no God," he was quoted as saying. "I do not believe in a future life. When I die, I die all over. Of course, that is only an opinion and it can be demonstrated only by dying."

Leopold was busy talking to Mr. Darrow when this occurred and apparently did not hear it.

Loeb, however, leaned forward to catch it, then turned to his companion's conference with the attorney.

Mr. Darrow was handed a telegram a few moments later. Leopold read it over the attorney's shoulder and whispered to Loeb.

Loeb, according to evidence read in court this afternoon, accused Leopold of killing Robert Franks when the two were brought face to face by the state's attorney after each had confessed the night of Decoration Day.

This morning the record showed Leopold as accusing Loeb and the latter reading had him calling Loeb's version a "lie" when it was made at the joint session.

Coolidge Completing First Year As President

To Strong Leader of Republican Party

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Calvin Coolidge completes this week his first year as President of the United States. Coming to the White House at a time of national mourning, the end of the year finds the President in the midst of a personal bereavement. Between two seasons of sorrow, the Coolidges naturally have enjoyed the greatest happiness that could come to an American family—the fulfillment of all political and social ambitions.

Politically it has been a curious year for Mr. Coolidge, but one which could not help but bring him supreme satisfaction. Here was a man suddenly called to the Presidency at a time when the leaders of his party had just about determined that he had made so little impression upon the people nationally that a stronger and more appealing figure would have to be put on the ticket for vice president in 1924.

A few months elapsed and Coolidge was the master of his party. He was giving orders to the same men who had agreed wisely in council that Coolidge must go. And these men were glad to take the orders. There had come a volcanic eruption at Washington. It was sweeping away official reputations. (Continued on Page Five)

MUSKOGEE, OKLA., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—J. A. Walton, deposed governor and candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator was made the target for several eggs hurled by a small boy while he was addressing a crowd in last night. None of the eggs struck Walton, although one hit the speaker's nose, and splattered several persons standing nearby.

Walton severely scolded the Ku Klux Klan and charged the organization with being responsible for the boy's prank. He interceded in behalf of the boy when several members of the crowd seized him.

Score Of Persons, 7,000 Cattle Dead From Anthrax

MEMPHIS, TENN., July 29.—Federal, state and county forces joined hands today to check the spread in Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas, where more than a score of persons and approximately 7,000 head of cattle are reported to have died of the disease.

Reports indicated a serious situation in Mississippi and Arkansas, while certain small areas in Tennessee, Louisiana and Missouri were said to be infected.

Governor Henry J. Whitfield, of Mississippi, said 25 counties in that state had infected herds and that about six thousand persons had died. The superintendent of the state health department at Jackson, said last night, however, that only six deaths had been reported officially.

Arkansas reported 20 infected counties, with a death list of six or eight persons.

Five counties in Tennessee are infected, the state veterinarian reported. No deaths have resulted in this state, so far as is known, and the loss of livestock was said to have been small.

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, sent a telegram to Secretary Henry C. Wallace, of the United States Department of Agriculture, urging the aid of the department in the campaign against the disease. Senator McKellar suggested use of funds appropriated by congress for combating the recent foot and mouth disease epidemic in California.

Loeb And Leopold May Be Placed On Stand

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, July 29.—(By the United Press)—Chief Defense Attorney Clarence Darrow may place Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, slayers of Robert Franks, on the stand in their own defense, he indicated today. In his determination to leave no stone unturned in the fight to free them from the gallows, Darrow said he was prepared to put on the witness stand the boys' parents, their friends and the boys themselves.

"They probably will not take the stand unless some unexpected situation develops," was the last official word from Darrow, but according to sources close to the defense, the "unexpected situation" has developed.

Seek Youths In Woman's Murder

MANSFIELD, MASS., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The murder of Mrs. Clara Williams, late last night in a road house in East Mansfield, which she had conducted, led to a police search today for eight youths who are said to have visited the place. One of the eight is believed to have fired the fatal shot.

Information obtained by the police was to the effect that the eight men after entering the telephone wire into the house, entered and demanded money from Mrs. Williams in connection with a previous visit. Mrs. Williams refused and her son Leslie came to her defense. When he drew a revolver, one of the intruders knocked it from his hand and another whipped out a revolver and shot the woman. The men then fled.

Lorain Residents Again Thrown In Terror By Storm

LORAIN, O., July 29.—(By the United Press)—Lightning, rain, wind and hail, accompanied by blasts of thunder, did thousands of dollars damage in Lorain and other northern Ohio towns at about ten p.m. yesterday and spread consternation among persons on the streets and theatre, who feared a repetition of the great tornado of June 28.

The Metzger and Robinson clothing store was damaged in stock and fixtures to the amount of $15,000, when lightning which followed electric wires down into the basement ignited gas leaking from a corroded pipe. Equipment from three fire stations was rushed to the store and the damage was confined to the basement. The store was damaged by the recent tornado.

Mr. C. Metzger, senior member of the firm said ruefully this morning as he inspected the latest damage, "well, all we have to get ready for now, is the earthquake."

During the storm, which was over in less than half an hour, large hail stones fell in the downtown district and in the residential neighborhoods. The wind blew fiercely and persons were seen fleeing to poles in an endeavor to keep from being blown from their feet.

Fatty Arbuckle Wins Over Hardest Audience

KANSAS CITY, MO., July 29.—(United Press.)—Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, former film comedian, won over his hardest audience here last night when he appeared before the city council and pleaded for permission to go on with his act at a local theatre.

The fat comedian, who has been trying to stage a comeback since his acquittal in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, asked the council for forgiveness and a "chance to live a clean, decent life and pay my debts."

Arbuckle's appearance was the result of a resolution introduced by Mrs. Margaret Shepard, women alderman, barring the actor from local theatres.

While the resolution was being read, Arbuckle entered the meeting room. Before a vote was taken he asked for and received permission to speak.

In a brief but earnest talk to the council Arbuckle told of his efforts to "beat back."

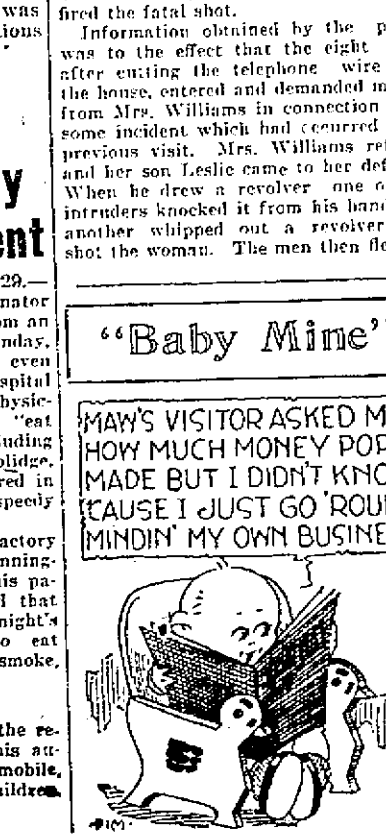

"I come to you as Mary Magdalene and ask forgiveness," the comedian concluded.

The members of the council took a five minute recess. They crowded around the comedian and fired questions at him.

When they reconvened, the resolution that would bar arbuckle from theatres here was defeated, 10 to 5. Three of the four women members of the council voted to give "Fatty" a chance.

A Story Different From All Other Fiction

Will Organize Tri-State Chamber of Commerce To Boost Ohio Valley; Local Rotarians at Meeting

Preliminary plans for forming an organization to advertise and encourage the Tri-State section of the Ohio Valley occupied the attention of the local Rotarians at their regular monthly meeting last night at the Teapot Dome Inn, near Greenup. The new organization will be in the nature of a Tri-State Chamber of Commerce, interested in encouraging the civic and industrial development of the entire district.

E. N. Meek, of Ironton, was named temporary chairman in charge of organization work. He will appoint a committee, composed of two members from each city, to select a name, draft by-laws and arrange for an organization meeting. Charter members will be the Inter-City Rotarians, but membership will be open to all persons interested in development of this section. Mr. Meek is identified with the Selby-Knox company, and was formerly stationed in Portsmouth.

Mr. Meek's committee will submit their report at the next monthly meeting of the Inter-City Rotary committee, to be held at Ironton the last Monday in August.

Local Rotarians attending were L. D. Huestis, H. H. Winter, Alan Jordan, and J. W. Ransom. Good attendance was also present from Huntington, Ashland and Ironton. Adam Frick, manager of the local chamber of commerce, was also present on behalf of that organization.

Buena Vista Team Stepping Right Along

The game was featured by the pitching of Burnett, who struck out 16 of the Rome batsmen, home runs by Nell and Sparks of Rome, and Mr. Foster and C. Miller of Buena Vista, and the hitting of Davis of Buena Vista, who garnered four hits out of five trips to the plate. His bingles sent two runs across each time. Any team desiring a game with Buena Vista, call Greene at Miller's store at Buena Vista.

CHILD HIT BY AUTO; SKULL FRACTURED; DIES

Louise Radloff, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Radloff, 608 Glenwood avenue, New Boston, was run down by an auto truck in front of her home, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, died on the operating table at Hempstead hospital 45 minutes later as a result of a fractured skull. The machine, a grocery delivery truck, was driven by William Bell, aged 29, driver for Frank Emmett, grocer of Rhodes avenue, New Boston.

The child had been playing on the sidewalk across the street from her home and started to cross the street to go to her home when struck. The mother had been on the front porch of her home watching the child until just a few minutes before her fat accident when she went into the house to finish some work.

Charles Slaughter, a neighbor, was on the front porch of his home and he was an eye witness to the accident. His story to Coroner Virgil Fowler and New Boston police last night was that Bell was driving at a moderate rate and that the child darted into the street directly into the path of the truck. Bell stopped his machine within a few feet and helped Mr. Slaughter carry the child to her home.

Dr. W. G. Cheney was summoned and at a glance determined there was a serious fracture of the skull, indicated by bleeding at the mouth and ears. He had the child removed to Hempstead hospital where Dr. J. S. Hardin assisted in an effort to lift a piece of skull from the brain.

Although everything possible was done it was seen within a few minutes that the child was beyond human aid, the final summons coming at 3:15 o'clock.

The father, who is employed on the night shift at the steel plant, was near Greenup yesterday afternoon picking up what form to find him and went after him as soon as the child was removed to the hospital. He arrived home some time after the death. The mother, who was hysterical, also remained at home while the child was taken to the hospital.

Louise Radloff was born in New Boston and was two years of age last December 27. The parents, Wesley and Bessie Radloff, and three sisters, Lilly 7, Mildred 5 and Sadie 4 months survive. The family moved to New Boston in 1910 from Greenup.

The body will be taken to Greenup Wednesday for burial.

Boy Hit By Auto; Suffers a Broken Leg

A fracture of the left leg just above the ankle and slight bruises about the head were injuries sustained about 6:30 o'clock Monday evening by Harry Colburn, 7 year old son of Mrs. Samuel Colburn of 309 Washington street, when struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Thomas Lee, automobile salesman, of 201 Bertha avenue. The scene of the accident was in front of the lad's home and occurred when he ran into the street directly into the path of the machine. A playmate was chasing the Colburn boy at the time. Mr. Lee was driving at a moderate rate of speed and stopped his machine within a few feet. He picked the boy up and took him to Mercy hospital, where an X-ray was used at once to determine if the skull was fractured.

It was found that the leg injury was the most serious.

Mr. Lee was hospitalized from all blame by the mother, after an investigation of the accident.

Blames Western Union Telegraph Co. For

Says Her Messages Were Delivered To Her Husband

Domestic Troubles; Sues For $25,000

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., July 29.—Claiming that her husband's faith in her had been shattered and that he is threatening to sue her for a divorce, Mrs. Margaret J. Scott of Westmoreland, has filed suit in the circuit court of Cabell county against the Western Union Telegraph company, asking alleged damages of $25,000.

Mrs. Scott charged, in bringing the suit, that the telegraph company was responsible for all of her domestic troubles because it had collected the charges on a number of telegrams sent between her and some intimate friends in Los Angeles, Cal., and had turned the messages, all of which were entirely personal, over to her husband.

She also charged that, after reading the messages, some of which contained innocent phrasing, easily misinterpreted by one not familiar with the circumstances, her husband began to doubt her fidelity to him and threatened her with divorce.

Mrs. Scott charged that the telegraph company was at fault because, after her home here had burned to the ground, she found herself pressed to funds, and, temporarily, was unable to adjust the bill held against her by the company, and further alleges that, before she could get the money to pay the bill, the telegraph company communicated with her husband, J. R. Scott, foreman at the Norfolk & Western Railroad shops in Williamson, and turned the messages over to him, although they were plainly addressed to her.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—Please give me a recipe for peach melba and oblige.

Gloria.
Six round slices of cake, one-half cup sugar, six halves of peaches, six teaspoons jelly or jam, one-half cup coconut.
Place slices of cake on serving plate and pour syrup over them. Put half of peach on each slice. Into center of each put jelly or jam. Sprinkle with coconut and serve. It may be served with whipped cream also.

Label—The disease you mention is purely mental depression, and about the only remedy is a change of occupation and environment, and self will. The victim usually imagines she is ill, first from one cause, then another. It should in no way affect the shape of the mouth, unless she suffers from convulsions. You should certainly state the cause to a physician.

Dear Dolly—Will you please give the address of the place where one applies for the hero medals?

THANK YOU.
Write to the Carnegie Hero Fund, Pittsburgh, Pa. The application should be made by a friend who has obtained all the facts and presented them clearly.

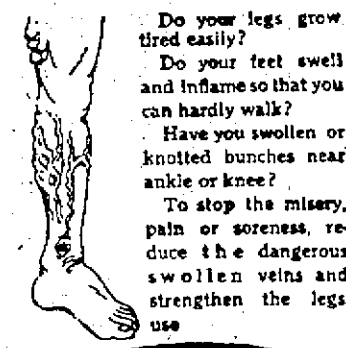

Dear Miss Wise—Would be pleased to learn if the new Soloto County courthouse will be erected this year or not. Is the county going to extend the courthouse site east to the first alley?

I should think they ought to situate the new city hall adjacent to the courthouse and have them together. —PORTSMOUTH CITIZEN.
No plans have been perfected to have it erected this year, and it will probably extend past the first alley. Perhaps some of the county officials can enlighten you as to your suggestion.

Dear Dolly Wise—What would you think of a boy who would curse at his mother and sass her at every chance. He is about seventeen years old and old enough to know better? He won't help her around the house—just reads all the time. He is old enough to work, but won't stick to anything. Is there anyway to make him do right?

—SISTER.
About the only thing to do is to appeal to his sense of honor, and maybe a trip to the woodshed would help. Sometimes it is the parents' fault, when a child is disrespectful. Sad, but true. If he had been well disciplined when he was younger, he would probably be a better man for it. It is surely shameful for any child to be so disrespectful to the elders, and he will certainly live to rue the day that he did so.

HOME FURNISHING Low and High Effects

A long, narrow table against a wall produces a low effect at that place. To counteract this, hang a tall, narrow mirror or picture above the center of the table. This makes a pleasing group.

One of the most enjoyable events of the summer took place Sunday when Mr. Charles N. Frank invited members of the Consolidated Shoe Company and their families and a few friends to his fruit farm on the South Webster Pike for an all day picnic.

Dinner and supper were served in the big storage room, where the fruit is sorted and made ready for market. Large strong tables simply grained under the heavy load of good "rats."

After dinner an inspection of the orchards and a trip to the caves was enjoyed, and before returning home each lady of the party was given a basket of choice peaches and apples as a souvenir of the occasion.

Sharing equally with Mr. Frank in the hospitality of the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. John F. Walker, who make their home on the farm. They graciously opened their home and helped Mr. Frank in extending the hand of welcome and looking after the comfort of the guests. Coolidge and delving deep into the doings of the Republican administration. The party leaders knew instinctively that no investigation could possibly involve Mr. Coolidge.

Democrats claimed that Mr. Coolidge as vice president had sat as a member of the Harding cabinet and should have known what was going on. They also said he was presiding in the Senate when the first attacks were made upon the house of Teapot Dome. But that was as far as they went. So the Republicans soon began to look to Mr. Coolidge as the Moses to lead them out of the wilderness. They clung to him and proclaimed him as the party's greatest asset.

Opposition to Nomination Meets Quickly

Opposition to his nomination fell away so rapidly that only Hiram Johnson was left and before the convention he gave up the ghost and released the few scattering votes that had come to him in the early primaries. Coolidge was the party convention and the party primaries virtually everywhere.

This unprecedented triumph with the people, as reflected in the wishes of his own party, came to Mr. Coolidge as a surprise. Republican congressmen, however, at least in name, had flattered him as no President has been flattered, not even Cleveland or Roosevelt.

Mr. Coolidge found himself at odds with Congress from the beginning to the end of the session which has been his first since he became President on August 2 last. One of the very first of the Coolidge declarations was that he would attempt so far as possible to carry out the policies of the late President Harding.

The one outstanding Harding policy at the time of his death was that America should give no aid to the World Court. Mr. Coolidge, however, has been able to make no headway with a recalcitrant Senate. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, from his own state of Massachusetts, having been one of the big stumbling blocks encountered by Congress in passing the bill.

During his session, President Coolidge vetoed three of them and would have vetoed the other two except for the belief that some means of public relief was contained in them. The two measures given his approval were denounced, however, because they included provisions against which the President had protested in vain.

One of these was the tax reduction measure which was framed by the Democrats and the insurgent Republicans of the Senate and House. Mr. Coolidge had pleaded in vain for the Mellon plan. He urged loyal Republicans in House and Senate to stand by him in the fight. But they told him frankly the Mellon plan could not pass. They compromised. There was some doubt whether Mr. Coolidge would sign the bill. But he could not withstand the pressure for tax relief. In signing, however, he declared the bill was just about all that it should not be and he announced he would take his case to the people and urge the next Congress to re-frame the tax principles in accordance with the Mellon recommendations. It is to be presumed Mr. Coolidge will take this stand in his speech of acceptance.

Vetoed Bonus And Postal Salary Raises

President Coolidge told Congress in his first message that he did not favor a soldier bonus. Congress passed one. Mr. Coolidge vetoed it. Congress immediately re-passed the measure into law.

President Coolidge told Congress the public purse would not permit of increased pensions to veterans and dependents of the Civil and Indian wars. Congress passed the measure. The President vetoed it. Congress immediately re-passed the measure into law.

temon's agreement" and gravely offend a friendly nation if it wrote into the new immigration bill, Japan vigorously protested. Secretary Hughes all but threatened to resign. The President sent for the party leaders in Congress. All to no avail. Congress passed the bill just as it pleased. The President was forced to sign because of the restriction generally needed on the alien influx, but he said if he could pass upon the Japanese section independently he would veto it without hesitation.

This, then, was the President's record with Congress at a time when he had determined to seek nomination from his party. Instead of weakening him with the people at large, the contests and conflicts with Congress immensely strengthened him. Mr. Coolidge's first utterances as President were most reassuring to the conservative elements of his own party and of the country at large. They regarded him as a man who would "sit steady in the boat" and "let the storm pass."

President Coolidge told Congress the public purse would not permit of increased pensions to veterans and dependents of the Civil and Indian wars. Congress passed the measure. The President vetoed it. Congress immediately re-passed the measure into law.

over since. The situation here in Washington was none too reassuring when Mr. Coolidge was called upon to take up the reins of government. The Republicans in 1922 had lost the elections in many states and Congress was Republican on paper only. There were rumors and rumblings of the coming storm of investigations. The "Ohio Gang" was beginning to get into the papers. The "Little Green House on K Street" was becoming nationally known.

Although he had been in public office nearly 20 years, the people at large knew curiously little of Mr. Coolidge. He had been inconspicuous as Vice President. His earnings and names at the White House and the capital suggested never an element of news. There was recollection of a firm hand in the Boston Police strike, but even there it had been said that the Democratic Mayor of Boston deserved a very large share of the credit for maintaining law and order.

Mr. Coolidge went quietly about his task as President. The people had to wait from August 2 to the opening of Congress in December to get the first general expression of the views of the silent men from Massachusetts. The President's message, short, sharp and crisp, made a generally favorable impression, especially upon the members of his own party. Mr. Coolidge had found most of the Harding cabinet to his liking. He particularly began to lean upon Messrs. Mellon and Hughes and Hoover and Weeks, and does to this day.

Shows Rooseveltian Ruthlessness
In the midst of the investigations, when the Senate passed a resolution demanding the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby, Mr. Coolidge sent the resolution back with a sharp reminder that he alone was responsible for his cabinet and it was a matter with which Congress had no concern. Later when Mr. Denby voluntarily resigned, however, Mr. Coolidge made no effort to restrain him. Also when Attorney General

Daugherty became further embroiled with Congress, Mr. Coolidge did not hesitate to ask for his resignation. Mr. Daugherty and his friends believed he had been wronged, but the President would enter in to no argument with them. There was a touch of Rooseveltian ruthlessness in this action which revealed a new side to the President.

Mr. Coolidge has demonstrated in his year at the White House that he does not know how to play. He works long hours. His only recreation is walking and an occasional sail on the Mayflower. The confinement of the White House has begun to tell on him. He is far less vigorous in appearance than he was a few months ago.

Coolidge Putting His Address On Paper

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—President Coolidge has begun to put on paper the Republican campaign keynote address he will deliver here August 14, when formally advised of his nomination as the Republican presidential candidate.

Seated in his study in the White House, Mr. Coolidge spent several hours yesterday dictating sections of the address to his stenographer. He made rapid progress, as he previously had outlined the address in detail and another period was allotted today for similar work.

Preparations for the notification ceremonies have been virtually completed by James B. Reynolds, director of the Washington headquarters of the Republican National Committee. The issuing of invitations and other details were placed in Mr. Reynolds' hands by National Chairman Butler, who will not return to Washington until a few days before the notification.

Two Held for Murder of Woman

LAFER, MICH., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Sensational developments within the next twenty-four hours in the search for the slayer of Mrs. Blanche Burke, 28-year-old widow, whose nude body was found here early Sunday morning, were suggested as possibilities by relatives of the dead woman early today. The father and two sisters of Mrs. Burke, who have been active in the search for her slayer, refused to say what line of investigation they expected to produce in the new developments.

Meanwhile county officers took into custody David L. Tiner, 48, of Flint, and Kenneth Blair, 34, of Port Huron, who were arrested at Ingham City, and brought here for questioning.

It was also reported that an employee of the laundry at the Michigan home training school, a state institution for feebleminded, where Mrs. Burke was a teacher, had at one time quarreled with Mrs. Burke and was quoted as having threatened to "get her." The name of the person was withheld.

Physicians testified at a coroner's inquest that the woman had not been assaulted.

Funeral services for Mrs. Burke will be held here today.

Davis Winding Up Vacation In Maine

DARK HARBOR, ISLESBORO, MAINE, July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—With only twenty-four hours of his Maine vacation remaining, John W. Davis, devoted much of his time today to finishing up his address in a letter to his constituents in West Virginia on August 11, accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

His calendar was clear of engagements and his only recreation was a golf match in the late afternoon. Accompanied by Mrs. Davis and his friend, Frank L. Davis, the nominee will leave tomorrow afternoon for New York, arriving there Thursday morning.

Again at his desk in his headquarters, Mr. Davis will plunge immediately into the task of clearing away the many problems awaiting solution since he had been here in the Connecticut Bay Islands, visiting and preparing the all-important address of the campaign.

There will be a series of conferences with Clem L. Shaver, his campaign manager and other leaders, among them Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, whom he again will urge to become the party candidate to succeed himself.

After one week in New York the nominee will proceed to his old home at Clarkburg.

Enjoy Big Basket Dinner

Immediately after the Sunday school hour on Sunday morning about 200 apots filled with boys and girls of the Otway M. E. Sunday school journeyed to Lincoln's grove, about two miles from Hardin.

The well-filled baskets were then opened, good fellowship and perfect harmony prevailed, as the shadows of evening gathered, the boys and girls tired, but happy were returned to their homes.

Independents Selling Up Political Machine

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The setting of a political machine for the La Follette-Whelan independent presidential campaign is to be completed under present plans of its sponsors, before the senators embark upon an extensive speaking program. Although this may delay the start of the campaign until September, leaders in the movement expressed the opinion today that the plan would enable the candidates to make more effective use of their efforts.

Senator La Follette meanwhile has put off his contemplated return to Madison, his home, in order to remain in Washington, in closer touch with the functioning of the new organization. A speakers' bureau will be organized shortly in the Chicago central office of the campaign, to study the tactical advantages of putting orators, including the presidential candidates, into the different regions.

Sick Headaches, Due To Stomach Trouble Are Quickly Relieved By The New Herbal Remedy Ka-di-ok

MRS. NELLIE MOORE

"When I started taking Ka-di-ok recently I suffered constantly from sick headaches, but I want to say that the first few doses relieved me, and I have been entirely free from them ever since," says Mrs. Nellie Moore, Route No. 3, Fairview, Va., who has lived her whole life on a farm in this vicinity. She further said:

"For the past year or more I have been continually bothered with stomach trouble and had to be careful of my diet or would suffer from indigestion, as a great many things I would have enjoyed eating seemed to disagree with me. I scarcely was ever free from headaches caused by indigestion from a sour stomach."

"Since taking Ka-di-ok I have noticed a big change in my condition. My appetite is fine and it seems like I can't get enough to eat. Anything I eat now seems to agree with me and does not cause me any distress as it did before. And best of all I have been free from headaches, which were on my nerves and made me feel discouraged and miserable. Ka-di-ok has helped me so much that I am never going to be without it."

Ka-di-ok is designed to relieve stomach trouble, and is an efficient remedy for the liver and kidneys and to tone up a weak nervous system. Every one requires a spring tonic. John Ainsley Master Thief

Arthur Somers Roche

Copyright 1924, NEA Service Inc.

THEIR WIVES' JUSTICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, becomes a master crook—prying upon other thieves. In arranging with a "fence" to dispose of a box of jewels which he stole from the White Eagle, a crook, Ainsley was overheard by Svede Thomassen, a brutal murderer in hiding.

Thomassen comes to Ainsley's apartment, covers him with a revolver and demands half of the loot. He orders Ainsley to go and get the jewels from the safe-deposit box downtown. Then he drops down on a bed in Ainsley's apartment and goes to sleep confident that Ainsley will not cross him. Ainsley is fearful of exposing him to the police because he himself would become involved in the uncovering of many unpleasant questions.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

With a groan Ainsley dismissed his plan. I could not give up my liberty. The shame of exposure was more than I could endure. Yet to permit Thomassen to escape, to aid him in his escape, was to ensure a private shame as hideous as any public exposure. I was caught between the devil and the deep sea, as it must come to anyone caught between the devil and the deep sea, unless he would perish.

Kindly announce my candidacy for the nomination of Treasurer of Scoto County at the August 12th primary. I will appreciate your support and promise a good account of my stewardship if elected.

A. E. PURDY.

My guest would not awaken. So I went to my own chamber—he was in the room next the living room—and from my bed I took a sheet of paper, and two pillows and several books to give the thing a weight. I made a clumsy effigy of a man. I wrapped a dark overcoat around the figure, buttoned it, tied string about it to keep it in place, and went quietly to the window. I raised it and looked out.

The window opened on a vacant area in the rear of the building. Below it, a ledge ran for the length of the house, a ledge perhaps two feet wide. I lifted my effigy through the window, lowered it and placed it carefully upon the ledge. It was quite heavy; I had placed several books inside it.

It would not balance truly upon the ledge, but fastening it with a string to the handle on the inside of the window, whereby it was raised, the handle or effigy would stay in place. And when I closed the window the dark twine was not noticeable inside the room. I drew the curtain to make sure that the twine would not be observed by Thomassen.

Of course dwellers in the distant buildings might see my bundle when light came with the morning. But New Yorkers are inquisitive about their neighbors. Strange things can occur without arousing questions. And anyway, this was a chance I had to take. And having taken it, I went to bed.

Thomassen awakened me in the morning. He was ravenously hungry, and I was forced to prepare him a breakfast. I hurried at his nerve, but I only ate in order that his suspicions might not be aroused. For I must seem to him reconciled to his presence and his purpose. The man was like a wild beast. If he became suspicious, he would kill.

But he thought that he understood me. I was philosophic enough to make the best of a bad situation, he reasoned. Let me leave the apartment, to let the jewels from the safe-deposit box, with hardly a reminding threat to force me not to play him false.

Cautioning him to keep away from the windows, and to answer no rings at the doorbell or telephone, I left him.

"You're more scared than I am," were his last words to me. And I'm facing the chair, while you've got to face the door."

as I had promised, and gave it to the manager of the office with strict instructions not to deliver it until eight-thirty. His satisfaction with the generous tip I gave him convinced me that he would obey my instructions implicitly. I told him, "Well, that was a change I must take."

Then I went to the safe-deposit vault and removed the brown paper parcel which contained the casket of jewels that had belonged to Marcus Anderson. I returned to my apartment—and then began the hardest part of my task.

This was to keep Thomassen in my rooms until after dark. For the plan which I had conceived needed darkness in its execution.

Naturally, my unwelcome guest was in a fever of impatience to depart, once he had glimpsed the Anderson treasures. But I played upon his fears. The police, I told him, were scouring the city. Every station, every ferry, every road and bridge were guarded. He would have no chance whatsoever of passing the cordon in daylight. Indeed, for him to appear upon any street, however secluded, was dangerous. I convinced him, at length.

It was the most trying day of my life. I could read the thoughts in the murderer's brain. We had divided the jewels, and he had been a shade too equitable in the division. I knew that he was thinking, all the time, that he might as well have them all. I only hoped that he would delay translating thought into deed until the White Eagle should arrive.

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get on my feet. I could not do any work without being all tired out. One day when I was desperate for relief, I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headache nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R. F. D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

"GOOD TIMES" SEEN AS BIG G. O. P. ISSUE

WASHINGTON, July 29.—After weeks of groping for a winning issue Republican leaders today were becoming more and more convinced that the presidential campaign will be determined by one fundamental economic issue—good times.

While Democratic and Independent leaders contend that many other issues will enter into the campaign, they concede that the material prosperity of the country is always a controlling factor in presidential elections. They also concede that good times would give the Republicans a big advantage.

As one astute Democratic politician observed "it is the thing that touches the pocket nerve of the voter which usually guides his hand in casting his ballot," but there is a fierce debate in the rival political camps as to whether the country is on the verge of good times.

The Republicans point to the rise in grain and hog prices as the best indication that agriculture—a fundamental industry—is due for complete rehabilitation.

A Friend Indeed

John Wiley, arrested by Marshal Oliver Cassidy, of New Boston, several nights ago has been released from the New Boston jail. A friend came to his rescue and stood good for fines and costs amounting to $413.60. Wiley attempted to destroy a half pint of moonshine by pouring the leg of his trousers. He also carried a pint in his hip pocket and as the bottle fit tightly in the pocket he could not pour out the contents of this vital. He was fined $300, latest charge. A balance on old fines and costs caused his account in police court to mount to $413.60. Unable to pay he was held in jail until a friend came to his rescue.

DONAHUE WOULD ALTER PENAL SYSTEM WITH STATE OWNED PLANTS

COLUMBUS, July 29.—Election of an assembly which will provide brick plants and factories where Ohio's convicts may earn enough money to support their families while they are in prison, was urged by Governor A. V. Donahue at a meeting of the 15th annual Democratic club here tonight. Declaring that the worst problem is the worst Ohio has to face, Governor Donahue gave statistics on the inmates of various state penal institutions where he said heads of families receive five cents an hour for their labor and unmarried men two and one-half cents an hour.

Plans to employ these men profitably where they could earn wages which would at least keep their helpless wives and children from starvation or from becoming public charges, could be maintained without a dollar cost to the state, he said.

HER WEDDING GOWN PROVED DEATH SHROUD

YOUNGSTOWN, July 29.—Melancholia, superinduced by homesickness for her old home in Hungary and possibly by an unfortunate love affair, is ascribed as the cause for the suicide of Maria Sikora, aged 25, and attractive, who leaped to death into a lake in Mill Creek park here.

Through a coincidence, the name of the man who found her was the same as the alias of a man who had paid her some attention. A week ago, the young lady appeared at her employers home with a dress, which she said would be either "her wedding gown or her shroud."

CHILD IS DEAD FROM "TRENCH MOUTH" DISEASE

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 29.—The first death from "trench mouth," a disease which assumed the proportions of a near epidemic here about a month ago, was reported today. Irene Dutrow, the 10-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Dutrow, died in a local hospital after an illness of several weeks.

The disease which attacks the throat, gums and teeth, first became known during the World war and derives its name from the fact that it was a scourge to the soldiers in the trenches.

LA FOLLETTE CHARGES SUGAR INTERESTS HOLDING UP REPORT OF TARIFF COMMISSION ON PROBE

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Declaring that he had "reason to believe" that representatives of sugar interests were delaying a report by the tariff commission, upon an investigation into costs of sugar production, Senator La Follette today called upon the commission for an explanation.

In a formal statement the Wisconsin senator reviewed the history of the commission's investigation into the sugar tariff, asserting that the sugar interests had been powerful enough to defeat attempts to use the tariff making process as a means to compel Cuban sugar growers to reduce their production and thus to increase sugar prices to the American consumer.

The investigation should have been completed long ago, the senator said, and for several weeks there have been persistent reports that the report of the commission was ready to be made public.

It is well known that representatives of the sugar interests have been very busy in Washington," Senator La Follette continued, "actively using every influence and device to delay the completion of the investigation."

It is obvious that if the report is held back until the end of the sugar year, in September, the sugar interests will be in a position to argue that the statistics compiled by the commission are out of date and valueless and the public will thus be denied during the current year and measure of relief from present exorbitant import duties on sugar.

It is likewise obvious that the sugar interests will exert influence to prevent the re-appointment in September of a member of the commission whose term expires at that time and who has consistently resisted the pressure of the sugar lobby.

The Wisconsin senator cited a letter written by Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee in January, 1922, to General Crowder, then in Cuba, asking that the president of Cuba be given a proposal by which the American tariff on sugar would be reduced provided Cuba would limit her production. The Cuban government followed up by sending a delegation which had an audience with Senator Smoot, Secretary Hoover, General Crowder, and C. C. Hamlin, whom Mr. La Follette characterized as a "lobbyist for American beet sugar interests."

"All of these gentlemen urged the artificial limitation of the Cuban sugar crop," Senator La Follette continued, "in order to decrease the sugar supply imported for consumption by the public in this country. Rumors were circulated to the effect that the Cuban sugar crop has failed."

Evidence existed that many cane crops controlled by American bankers in Cuba were destroyed by fire, thus tending to reduce the available supply.

Fighters In Muny Court

Wiley Howard, 30, and John Adams, 23, both colored, became involved in a fight at Thirtieth and Findlay streets last night and in Municipal court Tuesday they were assessed the costs by Judge Sprague for disorderly conduct after hearing their stories.

The hearing disclosed that the altercation grew out of Adams accusing Howard of being too chummy with his wife, Bessie Adams from whom he said he had been separated for six months.

SERVICE HAS QUALIFIED THIS CANDIDATE

William Thompson, Deputy Probate Judge and Republican Candidate for Nomination at the August 12th Primary.

William Thompson was born and reared on a farm in Madison Township. He taught school for sixteen years or until he entered the Probate office as chief deputy clerk in 1917. Being a teacher he has had the opportunity to study the child, and while being connected with the Juvenile Court he has had a great opportunity to study delinquent children and the cause of delinquency. The knowledge which he has gained while in the foregoing positions, makes him well qualified for the position of Juvenile Judge.

As chief deputy clerk of the Probate office he has had the supervision of all the Probate work, such as probating of wills, appointment of administrators and executors, the determination of inheritance tax, etc., and being in this position he has made himself familiar with all the laws relating to the Juvenile and Probate courts.

He has always tried to be exact in his work and courteous and accommodating to all who have had dealings with the office. The voters of Scioto county should place the office of Probate Judge in the hands of a man who has studied the office and who has learned and knows the laws relating to the office, rather than in the hands of one unfamiliar with the affairs of the office.

Which do you think will be for the best interest of the public?

His best references are the thousands who have been courteously and efficiently served by him during his years as deputy. Remember him on August the 12th.

Your vote will be appreciated.

BAY CITY, MICH., July 29.—(By the United Press)—Gurley E. Pierce, 68, millionaire attorney and banker, of Bay City, was drowned late yesterday when he drove an automobile off a dock into the Saginaw river here. Several witnesses who saw the car roll off, said that when Pierce drove up to the dock he waited a few moments, backed up 60 feet, then drove slowly ahead, apparently making no effort to stop the machine.

He had been in ill health for a year, having returned only last week from the University Hospital at Ann Arbor. He was a bachelor.

VITRIFIED Brick PAVEMENTS—OUTLAST THE BONDS National Paving Brick Manufacturers Assn. Cleveland, Ohio

Official public records prove that brick pavements often last twice or three times as long as less durable types and, at the same time, cost much less per year during that long period for repairs.

Portsmouth knows that brick pavements—even on weak and inadequate bases—often last thirty years and more. The rightful conclusion is that a MODERN brick pavement on a MODERN base will last much longer.

Because of their remarkable long-life and low-upkeep qualities, brick pavements are the least expensive per square yard per year of service. This is why brick pavements keep taxes lower than they otherwise would be.

Steel Plant Swells Lorain Fund; $3,000 Yet To Be Raised

Chairman Henry F. Bertram, of the executive committee for raising funds for the relief of Lorain, received today a letter from the Portsmouth Works, Wheeling Steel Corporation, stating that they had mailed to headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building their contribution amounting to more than $1,300.

This is the largest gift that has been received from any organization up to the present time, and means a substantial boost toward the total of $3,000, which Portsmouth and Scioto County are endeavoring to raise.

The Chamber of Commerce has given $500, and the Selby Shoe Company, $500. These gifts, with the $1,300 previously subscribed, brings the total of $3,700, leaving nearly $3,000 yet to be raised.

Portsmouth kiddies are enjoying a happy summer in the town parks and along the streams. Portsmouth kiddies are being cared for in the Fresh Air camp, the Girl Scout camp and the Boy Scout camp, but the children of Lorain have no place for recreation. Many of them are homeless.

Some are living in school houses and churches, others are sleeping in barns.

Portsmouth cannot remain deaf to the needs of her sister city in the northern part of the state. Many who probably wish to give have not been solicited, but contributions are welcomed at the Chamber of Commerce offices and every cent collected is being used for immediate relief in the devastated district.

The executive committee is anxious to have the quota filled by Saturday night.

Chappelear and Gardner Will Build North Moreland School; Other Contracts Awarded

Awarding of contracts for the erection of a modern fireproof school building in North Moreland addition, back of New Boston, featured an adjourned meeting of the City Board of Education last night. The Chappelear-Gardner Construction Company landed the general contract; Walters Plumbing Company the plumbing work; Schmidt-Watkins the electrical wiring; and the Columbus Heating and Ventilating Company the heating contract. The Board was unanimous in their decisions.

Unofficial action was also taken in the arranging for the purchase of a site for a new school on Cole's Boulevard.

Aggregate bids of the Chappelear-Gardner company and Mr. Johnson were $62,500.40 and $53,955, respectively. Deductions for alternate types of construction in certain details of the building, would reduce these totals, if all the alternates were adopted, to $56,593.72 and $54,400, respectively.

The board reached a tentative agreement yesterday to retain the solidly reinforced type of construction and the best grade of metal window sash. Under terms of the other alternate, edge-grain pine will be substituted for maple flooring; brick risecorridor in corridors will be eliminated, but retained in toilet rooms; terrazzo floors will be replaced with plain concrete, and stone work on rear of the building will be eliminated. This arrangement would make cost of the general contract, $50,200.00. Total cost of the building, according to unofficial tabulation, will therefore be $53,955.40, including the $12,000 site, plus architect's fees of five per cent of construction, and plus the cost of furnishing. The structure is to be completed July 1, 1925.

The bid of the Walters Plumbing Company was $5,500, the Schmidt-Watkins Company $800, and the Columbus Heating and Ventilating Company $5,900. The Hammond Heating Company, represented by W. J. Smith of this city, bid $100 lower than the Columbus firm.

Little time was taken in awarding the plumbing and wiring contracts, but considerable discussion preceded letting of a contract for heating. Agreement was first reached to use a mechanical warm air system instead of the more expensive steam system specified by the architects.

Devoes and Donaldson, Representatives of both the Hammond Heating and Ventilating company, were then given opportunity to present the case before the meeting. The contract was let at the higher bid, it was said, on the basis of past experience with both systems and the greater amount of grate space and radiation afforded by the Columbus system.

Contractors Dana Chappelear and D. E. Gardner were present and assured the board that work would be started on the new eight-room building as quickly as materials can be gathered on the site.

Discussion then turned to other requirements of a comprehensive building program, before the board adjourned at almost 7 o'clock. Members are discussing the advisability of mapping out a program for several years' construction activities, and asking voters to approve the necessary bonds at the November elections. Paul G. Williams, realtor, has offered the board a site in his addition on the Boulevard for $10,000. It faces 267 feet on Front avenue immediately back of the Boulevard tier of lots, and has a depth of 320 feet. Agreement was reached to approve the purchase of the site, and have it held by Mr. Williams subject to result of the November bond election, if he will accede to such an arrangement.

"Black Oxen," A Decided Hit With Capacity Crowds at Columbia Last Night

It has been said that there is nothing new under the sun and much of the criticism of motion pictures has been due to the great similarity in most photographs which have been offered. However, in the case of Frank Lloyd's production of "Black Oxen," a First National picture, which began its run at the Columbia yesterday, it can be said that one motion picture at least can have a decidedly original background and a climax which is unique and satisfying.

"Black Oxen" deals with rejuvenation, a subject little touched upon heretofore, but one that merits considerable thought and consideration and, from the first title to the final fade-out there is a compelling something behind all of the action, the old romance and the flapperism of the dynamic Janet, that compels one's interest and enthusiastic admiration. Cordelia Griffith, more beautiful than ever, plays the dual character of Madame Zatlanny, a woman of 58 who appears 30, and of Mary Ogden, who in her younger years was the most charming member of New York's social set. The flashes of Miss Griffith as an old woman, who in a period just prior to her rejuvenation, prove a delightful contrast for the regal beauty that is hers in the other scenes and her make-up is a remarkable achievement.

Conway Torrie, as the cynical newspaper columnist who falls in love with Zatlanny but is deprived of the right to marry her when she decides that she is too old to marry him, gives a splendid performance. Clara Bow, a newcomer to the screen, plays the part of Janet Ogden, a flippant flapper, with much spice and understanding and even in her most aggravating moments one feels a certain sympathy for her and glories in her change as the picture draws to a close.

Kate Lester as Jane Ogden, Thomas Ricketts as Dinwiddie, Harry Mestayer as Jim Ogden, Alan Hale as the aristocratic Prince Hohenhauser, Claire MacDowell as the pathetic Agnes Trevor and Tom Guise as Judge Trent, all lend a decided touch of realism and feeling to their parts, all of which makes "Black Oxen" an audience picture of extraordinary appeal. Mr. Lloyd deserves much credit for transferring to the screen the novel which earned its reputation as the best seller of 1923. His visualization is a piece of art.

Special Meeting of Council Called For Tonight To Discuss All Phases of New Electrical Rates

Every phase of the new electrical rates just promulgated by the Portsmouth Public Service Company will be discussed and no doubt from all angles at a special meeting of the city council called for 8 o'clock tonight.

This action was taken at the request of Mayor Calvert, who attended the meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association last night at the Elks Club and urged every member to be present.

The committee named by the merchants to investigate the new rates made an exhaustive report at the meeting Monday night. It is the question of the new rates, composed of Albert Marting, Wm. T. Scheller and Henry Atlas, G. E. Bonner, general manager of the service company, was present and gave his views on the new rates and answered many questions about them.

Councilmen Owen Hopkins, R. G. Bryan, W. L. Dickey, E. A. Steadman, Al Weghorst and Ray Davenport were at the meeting, but only Mr. Davenport gave his views on the question. He objected to the merchants' committee resigning despite the fact their work had been completed and urged it to remain on the job until something definite has been done. Mr. Marting stated that the committee was more than willing to do anything to settle the controversy and the committee will be on hand at tonight's meeting.

Mr. Bonner announced that within a reasonable length of time the power and lighting units of the company would be placed on separate circuits.

Merchants last night discussed the proposed new rates from all angles and it was the consensus of opinion that 15 per cent of the present 231-2 surcharge should be eliminated. They urge a large attendance at tonight's meeting so that the new rates may be gone into thoroughly and explained from all angles.

The light committee from council is composed of Ray H. Davenport, Owen Hopkins and B. A. Steadman.

RACELAND, KY., July 29.—The Elkhorn Special, one of four two-year-old races on Monday's Raceland program, was offered as a feature for the next to the last Ladies Day, and it resulted in a splendid struggle, with Parke, from the Harry Payne Whitney stable, being returned the winner over Maximaneh and Realize. Parke was the only other starter. Like the other three events fashioned for the juveniles, the headline was over the distance of five-eighths of a mile. Jockey Parke was astride the winner, and he put forth one of his best efforts. This was the second win of the afternoon for the Whitney establishment. Realize broke flyatit, but Parke was not long in getting the Whitney youngster on top, and once she reached there it was all over but hanging out the numbers. Maximaneh, a slow beginner, fairly ran over Realize in the stretch. The winner went to the post at 4 to 5 choices.

Monday's Ladies Day crowd was the best of the meeting, and it was not far behind that of Derby Day. The weather of the summer season to date prevailed, but this did not mean the routine sex back. It was after the first race before the last of them reached the course, and it was well after dark before the final load got away. The big grandstand proved inadequate to hold the gathering, but they made room somehow, much to the discomfort of the male patrons who had a hard time finding points of vantage except on the ground.

It has been many a day since four two-year-old races were on one program on a Kentucky race track. The races for older horses did not fill, however, and Secretary William H. Shelley had to call upon the youngsters to help him out.

The first event for the juveniles opened the day's proceedings and it fell to Col. W. B. Applegate's Letter-F in a rousing finish with Why-Ivory took the short end of it. In the next two-year-old affair the Whitney stable made it the first end of a double when The Count, a homebred son of Peter Pan-Marche II, graduated from the maiden ranks. Modesta and Brinkley were closest in pursuit of him at the end.

Following Flyatit's victory, the two-year-olds were given another opportunity to earn feed money in the sixth race, and Coquina, owned by C. H. Berryman, president of the Tri-State Fair and Racing Association, was returned the winner in a hard stretch drive with Homing Bird. Parke, a 4 to 5 chance here, backed up badly in the final seventy yards. The winner paid her few backers $43.30 for each $2 straight ticket.

It took the followers of form two races to get untracked Monday, but after Why and Bill Blackwell, the two most favored ones in the opening two numbers failed, three choices

The Count, Trafalgar and Flyatit won in a row. Patrick Sarsfield's defeat was a hard blow.
Joseph M. Hubbard, Louisville, Ky., horseman, grabbed off the last race with Tamper, which led throughout.
Jockey E. Smallwood shared riding honors with Parke, both having two winners to their credit.
Jockey Ivan Parke returned to the saddle after a brief layoff occasioned by a slight indisposition. Accompanied by Bobby Bower, of Cincinnati, he will leave for Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Tuesday night to report to Trainer James Rowe, of the Harry Payne Whitney stable.

E. A. Pollard, who served as a member of the Kentucky State Racing Commission under Governor Edwin P. Morrow, was a first-time visitor. "I had no conception that the Raceland track was such a magnificent plant," he said when asked his opinion of it, "and the spirit of the people and their friendly attitude towards thoroughbred racing was even more surprising. My business interests have carried me through Eastern Kentucky for years, and every place that I visit nowadays I hear the people talking about four years. They are rapidly becoming educated to the sport and when they do they will make Raceland an interesting spot."

Bert J. Brannon, who brought out Jockey Danny McAuliffe, the most promising apprentice prospect of the present year, came in today from his home in Kansas City where he has been enjoying a vacation since the close at Latonia. His horses are at the Milldale track.

Julius G. Reeder, assistant racing secretary here, spent today at Maple Heights, O., in quest of horses for the Huntington, W. Va., meeting which opens on next Monday. He will return tomorrow.

Johnny McQuaid, Lexington, Ky., turfman, was a visitor today and he plans to stick it out until Saturday.

Freedom From Stomach Distress

Wurster Bros. Have the Remedy and Guarantee it to End Indigestion or Gastritis or Money Back. So Why Be Miserable?

You can get one bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin and if after you take it you do not say it did your stomach more good than anything you ever used before, your money will be waiting for you.

This delightful and effective elixir not only gives instant relief from gas, fullness, acid stomach and distress after eating, but taken regularly for a short time will turn your weak, run-down stomach into a strong, healthy one able to perform its duties without help.

It ends indigestion, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach and does it in a surprisingly short period of time.

Dr. William W. Morgan, a prominent dentist of Bridgeport, S. J., writes: "After suffering severely with gastritis and other stomach troubles, a friend gave me a bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin. I had obtained little relief from other remedies, but four bottles entirely ended the trouble. Get it at Wurster Bros., and all regular druggists everywhere.—Advertisement."

Alleged Whisky Runner Shot By Chillicothe Patrolman; Will Die

CHILICOTHE, O., July 29.—Walter Ross, 19, alleged expert whisky runner from Huntington was reported in a dying condition in the city hospital today as a result of wounds he suffered Saturday night when he attempted to escape from Patrolman Raymond who fired after Ross jumped from an automobile in which he was being taken to police headquarters. The bullet entered the groin. Frank Cornwell, 17, a pal of Ross was arrested in a machine with him. Word from Huntington is that Ross is a fugitive from justice and is wanted by federal authorities.

According to Cornwell, Ross is considered one of the "brainiest" whisky runners in Huntington. He is said to have kept the police of that city baffled and has remained at liberty despite their efforts to apprehend him.

New Elevators Installed In Selby Plant

(By Sydney Strang)

The city editor would let us ride in the aeroplane which was in Portsmouth lately, but today he sent us over to the Selby Shoe Co., to ride in one of the new elevators recently installed there. Perhaps that was because the elevator is "foot-proof."

No, that's not the name of the elevator people call it by: that's Mr. Homer Selby's name for this latest example of the science of building elevators.

There is no "step up, please," "step down, please" or "watch your step, please" for the operator of the Selby elevator for it is equipped with a Micro-Drive, or self-levelling device. If the operator misses the floor and the elevator is within fourteen inches of the floor, either above or below, this Micro Drive attachment immediately brings the car to the exact floor level.

After riding in the car for a few minutes and watching the exact with which it can be controlled, the speed with which direction can be reversed without any jolt or any damage to the mechanism, we felt that it really was "foot-proof" and we might even be able to run it ourselves.

Two of these latest type elevators have been purchased by the Selby Co. The one in which we were riding gave us a wonderful sense of security, for a little plate said it would carry four thousand pounds.

and we don't weigh even a hundred.

Up on top of the building we inspected the elevators, the big one which runs the elevator and the small one which controls the leveling device. All sorts of safety devices are attached to the elevator runs on eight cables. The car in which we took our ride this afternoon travels at a speed of two hundred feet per minute. A similar elevator with a capacity of twenty-five hundred pounds is being installed in building No. 3 and the workmen say that the shaft built for the reception of the new elevator is the finest one in which they have ever worked.

BOY HIT BY TRUCK; DRIVER HELD BLAMELESS

A short time after he had come from Minford with his parents, Lowell Brown, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown, was struck and painfully injured by a truck at 11 a. m., Tuesday, as he was crossing Jackson street in front of the Johnson residence 1801 Jackson. The truck was driven by John Kopp, of 1822 Eleventh street, and is owned by the L. M. Distel Company.

Kopp was driving east and did not see the boy until he was directly in front of him as he had darted out from behind a parked machine. Kopp says he applied the brakes as quickly as he could and the car was barely moving when he struck the lad. Bystanders carried the boy to the home of L. G. Johnson and Dr.

J. W. Daehler was called. A thorough examination showed that no bones were broken but he was severely bruised about the legs and suffered a deep cut on his chin. Officer Charles Bard investigating the accident held the driver blameless. Mr. and Mrs. Brown came here this morning to dispose of some property which they owned on Jackson street.

Smith Pledges Support To Democratic Nominee

NEW YORK, July 29.—(By the Associated Press).—Governor Smith had a long conference with Clem T. Shaver, Democratic National chairman today, to devise plans whereby he could devote his every effort to further the cause of Davis for president.

"I will make a speaking tour; I will do anything I can to help the national ticket," the governor said.

The governor said that Mr. Davis had not spoken to him about becoming a candidate for re-election, but that he expected to discuss the matter with the presidential nominee when Mr. Davis returned to New York on Thursday.

Governor Smith declined to comment on reports that a move would be made to mention the Ku Klux Klan by name in the Democratic State platform.

Ohio Oil Co. Cuts Price 25c

FINDLAY, O., July 29.—(By the United Press).—The Ohio Oil Company today announced a reduction of twenty-five cents per barrel in the price of crude oil, Lima, Indiana, Illinois, Princeton, Plymouth and Waterloo. A reduction of fifteen cents per barrel was announced on Grass Creek, Elk Basin, Lance Creek, Big Muddy, Rock Creek, Mule Creek and Surland, Montana.

James Moore of 541 Front street suffered a complete fracture of the right leg this afternoon about 2:30 o'clock when caught in a shale bank cave-in at the Portsmouth refractories Company plant, Gallia street, Damartin hill. Moore works as a shale hauler from a bank in the crusher. The shale bank was in the brick plant yard and as Moore was taking a shale from the base of the bank, a large section caved in and caught him.

THE END OF THE CHASE

SEVERAL years ago the home of Albert Shattuck, a rich New Yorker, was held up by armed bandits and robbed.

The leader of the bandits promptly fled to Europe. Mr. Shattuck, who was well advanced in years vowed he would spend the remainder of his days, if necessary, to apprehend and punish the chief of the marauders. Turning detective he began pursuit of him. About a year ago he ran him to ground, in France, his native country, and had him arrested by the police.

France has a curious law under which criminals, no matter where their crime was committed, may be tried in French courts. This has been done with the Shattuck bandit and only last week he was convicted and sentence of death passed upon him.

Now Mr. Shattuck is sorry and doesn't wish the scoundrel quillotined.

That, however, is most probably what will be done with him. French courts haven't the American way of commuting or suspending the sentences of convicted criminals.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES

DUN'S REVIEW finds encouraging indications of business and manufacturing revival, from the developments of the week, ending last Saturday.

While the spread has not been universal the gain in transactions in such general lines as steel, dry goods, leather and footwear, together with a tendency towards stiffening prices makes for a better situation, has been substantial and promising.

Rising prices in wheat, corn and cotton are making for a brighter outlook through the greater purchasing power of the agricultural sections, which necessarily goes therewith.

July steel orders show a decided advance over June, but as the industry was then down to forty percent of capacity this betterment is not to be taken of vast assurance.

Outside of the advances in agricultural product prices all other improvement may have basis in an optimistic view of the outcome of the action of the Allies, now in conference, on the Dawes report.

FOOLISH HYSTERIA

SOMETIMES we take on a deep disgust at our own occupation, that of exuding matter more or less gray for enlightenment of a public, which isn't any too eager to receive it.

Such an occasion is right now when we see a large portion of the press fulminating columns of fiery patriotic indignation, because an individual, who insisted on attending the Plattsburg officers' training camp, was discharged by the firm employing him.

In this they overlook all the incidents of the case, which would have made it to the discredit of the firm if it had not fired the recruit.

The fellow took his two weeks vacation, at the expense of the firm. Its end coincided with the opening of the camp and he informed his employers that he would take two weeks more for it. If he were consumed with a burning desire to qualify himself as a defender of his country, the least he could have done, would have been to go fifty-fifty with the company, taking a week of his own time and a week of the firm's to go into training. But, no, his firm must stand for it all.

But that is not all. The man didn't have any need for the object of his prolonged vacation. Neither did his country. The fact is he is a veteran of the training camp, having attended annually for the last twenty years.

If he hasn't qualified as defender of his country in that time he is hopeless and undeserving in his alleged high purpose.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

THAT'S TOO MUCH

THE three parties are laying plans to spend fifteen million dollars aggregate on their presidential campaigns.

That's too much, altogether too much. One-third would be ample and a plenty.

Soon the various committees, all the way from nation to county, will be passing the hat and appealing to party loyalty to fill it.

No election was ever won by big money, unless that money was used to corrupt and to buy the electorate.

When the hat is shoved under your nose give something, if you can really afford it and sincerely believe the triumph of your party would be best for the nation, but give moderately, give even sparingly.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 29.—New York breeds the worst and most vicious type of criminal. This is a phase of the great city that is overlooked in the gust of hoarding of its pomp. Despite its great charities the metropolis is a city that neglects many outcasts.

The bobbed-haired bandit was a striking example. New York allowed her and thousands of others to drift into the dark basements where cheap excitement and twisted romance go hand in hand. She at one time or other caused under the rule of all the agencies of righteousness.

None of them set her feet in the right path and kept them there. At fifteen she was a child laborer, and like hundreds of others spent the evenings picking up sailors on the Brooklyn water front. She was the child of a drunken father and a deserting mother.

She went straight from the basement to prison just as hundreds of others are doing. The other day I walked through some of the mean, narrow streets running off the Bowery—Miniberry, Roosevelt, Baxter and others. I saw scores of children living in dirt, neglect and squalor.

Many had already started on careers of begging and stealing. Their pinched faces showed undernourishment and they built "them selves in rags to her. A box of nine was smoking a cigarette in the stoop of a tenement home. Another about the same age was expectorating amber sprays of tobacco juice.

"Master give a dime for the movies," begged one. He was asked what kind of movies he liked. "Filling and shooting," he replied. Quering and shooting were laziness through the day in dark hallways, most of them reeking with fumes of whiskey.

Fathers are out-of-job men who spend many weeks in prison for petty offenses each year. New York is apparently too big for its people to catch the undercurrents of misery that swirl in the tenements.

The poorest man in our town was a fellow who cut weeds in back yards and beat carpets for a living. He had six children and lived in a lean-to across the creek. He earned 50 cents a day when he worked and was given the noon dinner by those who employed him. His squalor seemed pathetic, yet he lived like a prince compared to those in New York tenements. He gave his children a grammar school education and they had substantial food from his garden. One of his boys became a public accountant and a daughter a trained nurse.

The chorus man is a pathetic figure in theatrical life. Rarely does he rise above the chorus. Outside of theatrical producers I have met few who knew a chorus man. They are clannish and live in a world all their own—a world of theatrical boarding houses. They dress well and of course are good looking—an asset they must have to be in the chorus. Jealousy that is so rife in the theatre world never touches them. They have great reverence for the more fortunate players with whom they appear. Just not the chorus man has struck some very hard days. There are only about five shows in town employing them.

One of the popular chop houses in the floating Forties is owned by a vaudeville actor who is on the road most of the time. It bears his first name and is a haunt of the two-day artists. A sign on the wall reads: "We know you are all good, but most of our patrons are more interested in food than talk."

An honest taxi driver returned a jewel case containing $75,000 worth of jewels that had been left in his car to the owner. His reward was a half dozen silk handkerchiefs. Copyrighted, 1924 by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

"Our Baby"
Mischievous, laughing little sprite,
Mother's pride and Dad's delight.
I never knew such joy divine
Until I found you, Baby Mine.
The sky took on a brighter hue,
The song birds sang more sweet and true.
My dear, sweet babe with eyes star bright,
A thing of joy from morn till night.

The touch of those dear little hands,
They hold me bound like iron bands.
This world would be a lonely place
Without thy tiny infant grace.
I love to hold thee, baby dear,
Close to my heart so near, so near.
My love for you I cannot measure,
Mother's little dark-eyed N. G. II.

Couldn't Help Them Much
Two neighbors were chatting over the fence when Mrs. B., smiling, passed down the street.
"Pretty woman, Mrs. B.," remarked one. "Who was she?"
"I really have forgotten. Here's her little boy. I'll ask him. Frank, who was your mother before she was married?"
Frank regarded his questioner gravely. "She wasn't my mother before she was married," he severely replied. —Boston Globe.

Too Good
"Well, Alice," said a Southern woman to a colored girl formerly in her employ, "I hear that you have married."

"Is he a good provider, Alice?"
"Yassum, Ah's powerful good provider, but Ah's powerful skeered he's gwine git catched at it." —American Legion Weekly.

Almost Lucky
"I came very near being the owner of a twin-six car today," said Gelatine Travers on his arrival home last night.
"How near?" inquired Mrs. Travers without enthusiasm.

In Philly
"I guess that man Butler sort of surprised some of the boys in Philadelphia."
"Yes, he certainly took their breath away."
So Luxurious!
Mrs. Click: "I suppose the boys in the Army get terribly tired at times."
Mrs. Click: "Yes, I guess they do, but you know they always have fatigue clothes to wear."

Home Training
Hearing her little boy using profane language, his mother severely reproved him and inquired, "Where did you learn to swear like that?"
"From pa's shaving, uncle's golf, brother's flivver, and sister's parrot," answered the youngster promptly. —Boston Transcript.

Consolation
"Did you try to console the widow of the man who was killed in that automobile accident?"
"Yes, I told her she could remember always that her husband had the right of way." —Detroit Free Press.
